2011 CHAIRPERSON'S REPORT

Building on a strong foundation has been the emphasis of Heifer International South Africa's efforts for FY2011. The organisation's new five-year strategic plan sets the stage for scaling up impact, diversifying resources and partnerships, and strengthening our systems for greater efficiency and effectiveness.

With a continued focus on strong local governance, it is my pleasure to welcome Ms Ayanda Mbanga as a new member of the Board of Directors. As an entrepreneur, Ms Mbanga brings to the Board extensive experience in the private sector with business communications and brand management, and will play a vital leadership role. We are also grateful to the members of our Provincial Advisory Committees who continue to work on the ground with staff to provide technical expertise to our projects in the Limpopo, Eastern Cape and KwaZulu Natal provinces.

The next year brings an exciting opportunity to build on our success and expand our impact by leveraging scarce resources to reach even more families in need. We deeply appreciate the support of our funding partners and donors, staff, interns and volunteers, to help end hunger and poverty for the most vulnerable South African families.

Best regards,

ORGANISATIONAL GUIDING STATEMENTS AND STRATEGIC PRIORITIES

Vision

Heifer International South Africa (Heifer), in partnership with others, is transforming communities, achieving sustainable community development, improving the livelihoods of thousands of families and caring for the Earth through extensive training, crop production and the provision of livestock.

Mission

The mission of Heifer International South Africa is to work with communities to end hunger and poverty in South Africa and to care for the Earth.

Statement Of Purpose

Heifer International South Africa, a community development organisation, works in partnership to achieve food security, poverty alleviation and caring for the Earth through sharing, caring and Passing on the Gift®.

STRATEGIC PRIORITIES

Priority Area 1- Enterprise Development

Heifer's project participants (youth, women headed households, marginalized and disabled community members) are meeting their food, income and other needs through increased agricultural production, entrepreneurial skills and market linkages. Participants are empowered to influence local governance policies in support of small holder farmers, in rural communities and environmental conservation.

Priority Area 2 - Resource Mobilisation

Heifer has diversified its funding portfolio and increased its funding sources. The organisation has adequate number of competent and committed staff for effective implementation of organisational activities and the necessary systems and tools in place to support operations.

Priority Area 3 - Environmental Stewardship

Project participants are adopting environmentally friendly practices through conservation and environmental reclamation.

Priority Area 4 - Social Development

Heifer's project participants are empowered to lead the development change process in their families and the communities where Heifer operates through capacity building and group strengthening interventions. Heifer is integrating gender and HIV/AIDS approaches in all activities to improve equitable sharing of resources, benefits and decision making in the projects.

Priority Area 5 - Partnerships

Heifer is increasing program delivery capacity through consolidating and expanding its partnership base in all the key priority areas: Enterprise Development, Resource Mobilisation, Environmental Stewardship and Social Development.

EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR'S REPORT

With as many as 12 million people in South Africa not sure where their next meal will come from, Heifer International South Africa (Heifer) knows our work is more urgently needed than ever if we are to end hunger and poverty in the country. We have a proven sustainable development model built on almost 70 years of experience globally. It is a model that starts with a small investment of animals and training, and, through Passing on the Gift®, grows throughout communities year after year.

In 2010/11, we worked with 1,323 families in 21 projects to help them overcome food and income insecurity. We are proud of this accomplishment and look forward to this number multiplying as these families reach out to others. Throughout this report, you will see our overall progress towards our mission of ending hunger and poverty in South Africa and caring for the Earth. Below is a high level summary of this past year and strategic direction for the future.

This year, the organisation, with multiple stakeholders, staff and board, developed a new five year strategic plan. The focus is to scale up our work and increase our efficiency, resources and partnerships. In order to reach millions of families in need, we will be strategically positioning our work in the three provinces, KwaZulu Natal, Eastern Cape and Limpopo, in order to have the most possible impact.

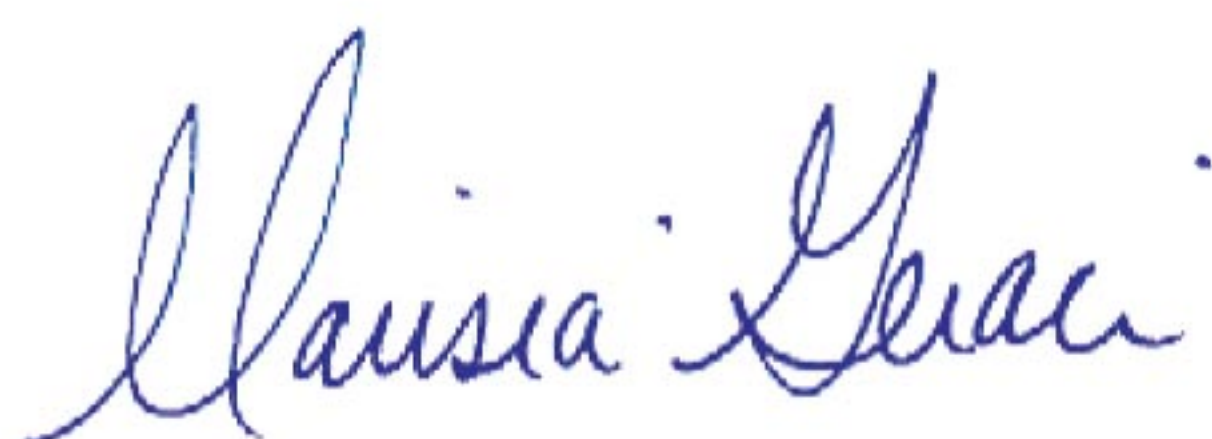

We will transition from working with smaller projects to working with thousands. In an effort to move towards reaching more families, in March 2011, we started a project near Port Shepstone, KwaZulu Natal which will be working with close to 700 families or more than 3,500 individuals. We will begin at least four more projects in 2011/12. We have strengthened our monitoring and evaluation systems over the past year in order to demonstrate impact and increase accountability to our donors and partners. This includes strong baseline collection and reporting on nine areas of impact such as nutrition, assets, enterprise development and participation of marginalised groups, women and youth in decision making.

Heifer is seeing families lifting themselves out of poverty- becoming food and income secure. Jobs are being created with small holder farming families through enterprise development activities. Families are improving their lifestyles and health and even saving money. Parents are sending their children to better schools and even to university. Rural families have a better and brighter future. And they are giving others hope by sharing their animals' offspring, knowledge and moral support to their neighbours in need as they fulfil their Passing on the Gift® commitment. It is incredible to think that training and a cow or a few goats or chickens can achieve all of this. But, unquestionably, it can and has, through Heifer's work globally with 13.6 million families and thousands here in South Africa.

Despite the wonderful work Heifer is doing in South Africa, poverty, inequality and despair continues to oppress millions. We need to reach more at a faster pace. Critically important is collaborating with like-minded partners- NGOs, corporates, governments, individuals and institutions. We look to you to join us in ensuring the millions who go to bed hungry have food on their tables, income to buy necessities and even become successful community leaders and small business owners through agricultural enterprise development activities.

On behalf of the organisation,
I thank each of you, staff, board,
supporters and partners, who enable us to reach our communities in need.

Ending hunger and poverty together,

Marisia Geraci

HISTORY OF HEIFER INTERNATIONAL SOUTH AFRICA

Since 2000, Heifer International South Africa has worked in partnership with over 3000 families to build sustainable livelihoods through agricultural interventions.

Heifer International began exploring the possibility of working in South Africa in 1995, soon after the end of Apartheid. After extensive research and several successful pilot projects, Heifer International South Africa was registered as a legally separate affiliate of Heifer International in the year 2000. Heifer International South Africa is a non-profit organisation and a public benefit organisation under South Africa law. The organisation continues to work closely with Heifer International in the United States and with the global family of Heifer offices across Africa and around the world.

Heifer International South Africa's mission is to work in partnership with impoverished communities to end hunger and poverty in South Africa and care for the Earth.

The organisation works in three provinces – KwaZulu Natal Province, Eastern Cape Province and Limpopo Province – by providing training, livestock, seedlings, fruit tree saplings, training and ongoing support. With the training and livestock, project members can provide nutritious eggs, milk and other animal products for their families and sell animals and animal products to earn an income. Instead of being vulnerable, poor consumers, they become resilient producers, running profitable small farming businesses.

In addition, each recipient agrees to pass on the equivalent of what he or she receives to another poor family – Passing on the Gift®. Through this simple concept, more and more families are achieving self-reliance through successful small farming.

Heifer International

As the Spanish Civil War drew to a close, an American relief worker, Dan West, found himself forced to decide which poor refugee children would get the meager cups of milk

he was handing out. Realising that this kind of aid could never be enough, he started an organisation dedicated to giving poor families livestock so that they could feed their own children, instead of relying on hand-outs – a cow instead of a cup. The first shipment of cows was sent from the US to Puerto Rico in 1944. Now, nearly 70 years later, Heifer is still helping poor families to become small farmers so that they can feed and support their families. Since it first started, Heifer International has assisted more than 13 million families in over 126 countries, including 3000 in South Africa.

PASSING ON THE GIFT® - A GIFT THAT KEEPS ON GIVING

The principle of Passing on the Gift® is core to the work of Heifer International South Africa and part of what makes our organisation unique. Every Heifer International South Africa recipient commits to Pass on the Gift of animals and skills to another needy family in their community.

Passing on the Gift® fulfils many functions. Since resource poor families are assisted with training and gifts of livestock, Passing on the Gift®, communicates messages like: I trust you to be successful therefore I will invest in you by providing you with training and the gift of an animal, believing that you will in turn share that goodness with someone else. The person is trusted, believed in, and given an opportunity to succeed.

It also breaks the destructive power of “handouts”. Recipients become donors to others in their own communities. A family receives an animal, which they could never afford to purchase, knowing they will “pay for it” by passing on a similar value animal to another family. They are able to enter and participate in the economy in a way they were never able to before.

Passing on the Gift® develops accountability between project participants. Families waiting to receive the gift oversee, encourage and assist members who have animals, since they will only be able to Pass on the Gift if they are successful. In fact, Passing on the Gift® is a mark of success - to Pass on the Gift, you must have succeeded in producing and raising animal offspring. Passing on the Gift® also embodies the spirit of Ubuntu – one’s success is tied to the ability to help others - and it is highly valued by project participants.

Passing on the Gift® ensures that Heifer International South Africa’s work will continue long after our three-to-five years of direct support have ended. Donors and supporters can rest assured that their gift will start a chain of giving that will continue for years to come.

CORNERSTONES

Heifer International's 12 Cornerstones for Just and Sustainable Development are a set of building blocks for successful development and represent Heifer International South Africa's approach to working with communities.

Passing on the Gift®

Each family that receives animals from Heifer agrees to pass on the equivalent of what they received to another needy family. Heifer's philosophy of practical sharing and caring at work.

Accountability

Groups define their own needs, goals and plans and then hold each other accountable. Individuals within groups become accountable to one another through Passing on the Gift®.

Sharing and Caring

Project members commit to care for one another and for vulnerable people, like orphans and the elderly, in their communities.

Sustainability and Self-reliance

Long-term food security and an end to poverty can only happen when families have food and earn income. Small farming businesses provide a sustainable path to self-reliance.

Improved Animal Management

Recipients of animals are trained in all aspects of animal management to ensure that the animals remain healthy and productive.

Nutrition and Income

Livestock provide protein and fibre, draft power and manure to grow vegetables, as well as small farming business opportunities.

Gender and Family Focus

Heifer encourages men and women to share decision making. Families work together to grow food and build small businesses.

Genuine Need and Justice

Heifer partners with the most vulnerable and marginalized people to support and empower them to take part and become successful, resilient and secure.

Improving the Environment

Agro-ecological practices, like growing fodder instead of simply letting animals roam around to find their own food, help to protect the environment so that future generations can also benefit from Heifer projects.

Full Participation

Heifer is committed to involving and encouraging all members to be involved in decision making and groups commit to full participation.

Training and Education

Building skills in animal management, vegetable production, community development, marketing, business management and gender and HIV/Aids gives project groups the capacity to succeed and to keep on succeeding after Heifer has left.

Spirituality

Spirituality is common to all people and groups, of all religion or beliefs. Heifer respects the beliefs of each group and the strong bonds, shared faith, hope and sense of responsibility of working together that these beliefs can create.

THE VALUE OF ANIMALS IN SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT

Heifer's model uses livestock as a means to end hunger and poverty. Through values-based planning, communities decide with Heifer International South Africa what types of animals they want, who should receive animals and the type of training required to make their project successful. Animals provide high-quality protein (eggs, milk, meat); assets that can be used as collateral for loans; inputs such as milk, honey, eggs or wool for microenterprises; draft power; and manure to increase crop yields and pack-power for transport.

Critical to Heifer International South Africa's work is the welfare of animals kept by project participants. Project members receive extensive training before receiving their animal and families have an incentive to care for their animals. Animals are an asset for a poor family, a productive asset (because they produce food that can be eaten and animal products that can be sold), and also an asset that reproduces, ensuring that, if a family cares for and nurtures their animals, they will be able to grow their business and continue to help others around them for many years to come.

The cycle below demonstrates the impact animals have on a household and the community:

THE ANIMALS WE PROVIDE

1 Chickens (laying hens)

Eggs are a great source of high-quality protein. From the moment they begin laying, hens produce an egg almost every day. A family with 15 – 20 chickens will have approximately 18 eggs every day to eat and sell.

2 Pigs

Pigs provide meat for families but they're also a great source of income. A single female pig can produce two litters of 6-10 piglets every year. Pigs are also omnivores, so they eat a wide range of low cost foods.

3 Dairy goats

Goat's milk is even better than cow's milk for many people, because it is easier to digest and suitable for people who are lactose intolerant. Goats are also smaller than cows, so they're easier to keep and one Saanen goat can produce up to 2 litres of milk each day.

4 Meat goats

Meat goats are a traditional animal in many cultures in South Africa, so there is a great, local market for them. Many families find meat goats a great source of income and use their manure to grow magnificent gardens.

5 Dairy cows

Cows take more time and energy to care for than goats or chickens but the rewards are great. Cow's milk is rich and healthy and good for selling, their manure is ideal for growing vegetables and they produce a lot of milk – the average Jersey cow, for example, can produce up to 15 litres of milk every day.
